E. SESSION SUMMARY:

Site had people and action. I felt that I was outside watching people move or walk in a forward motion. It looked as though some people were carrying objects that were long and slender and sometimes they would move the objects so that they would cross over each other. In other words, the objects would go criss-cross. Sometimes, the people were carrying the long, slender objects over their heads and then they would lay them down.

At times, I could see the objects sitting on a floor by themselves. You had to put something in the objects to make them work. If used improperly, they could be dangerous.

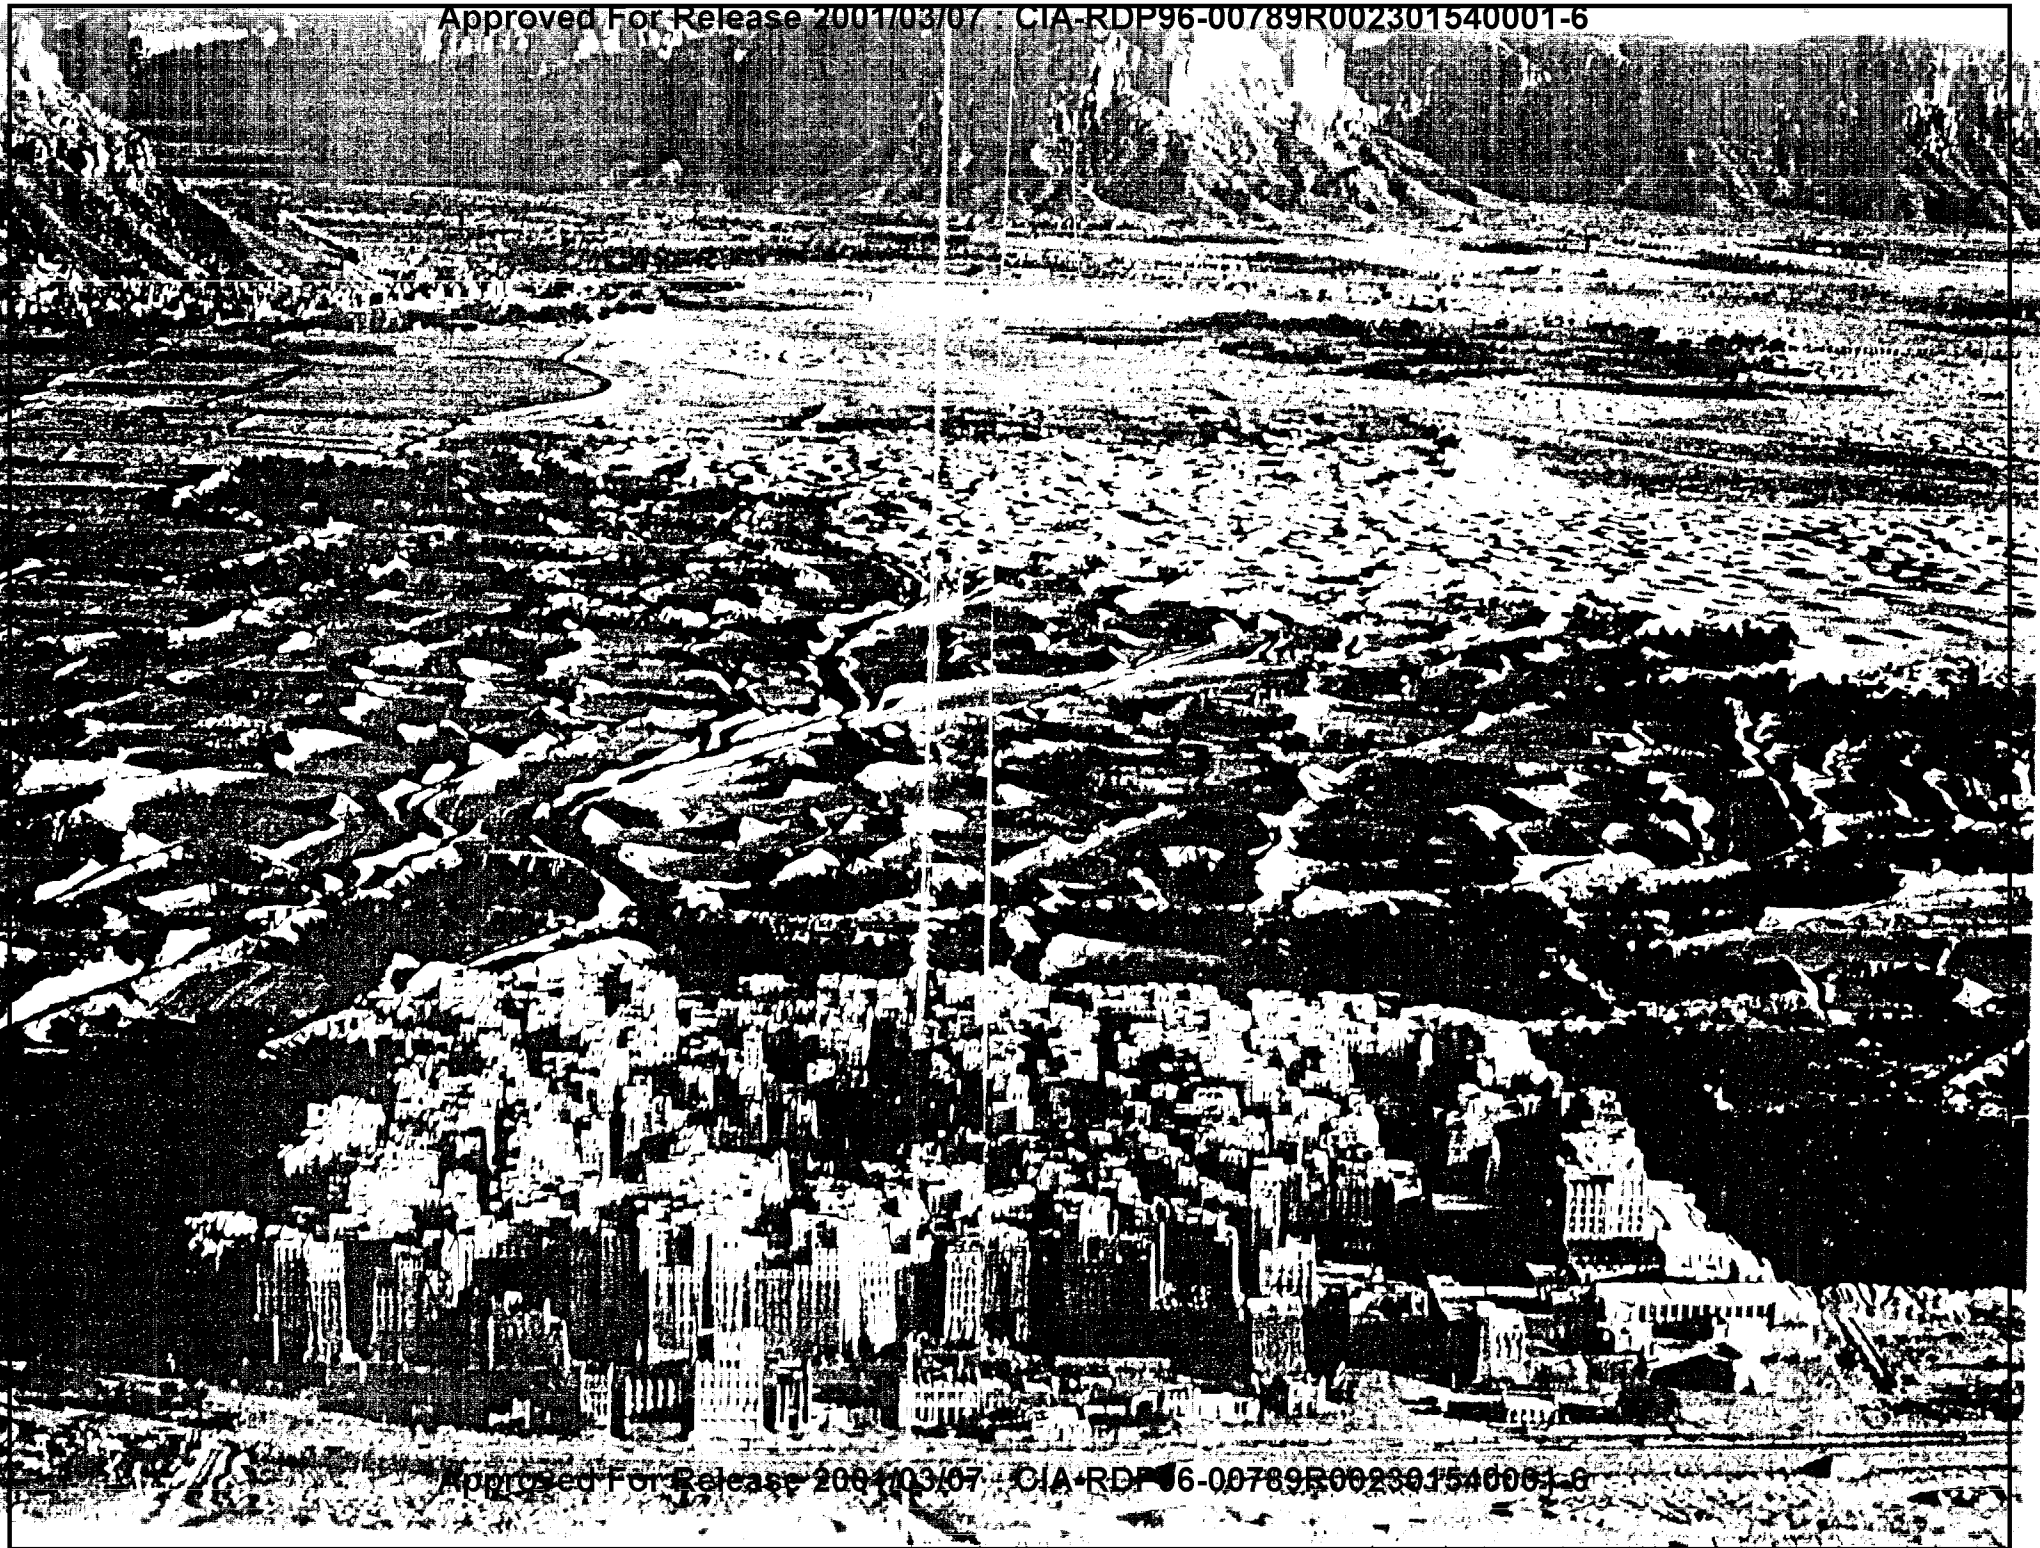

At one point, I felt that I was inside a structure. When I looked up, I could see some type of display that involved beautiful objects and maybe an important person or people.

The inside of the structure was made of brown wood. It was old. It was comfortable. The inside of the structure was cut up into different sections.

Overall, the site was interesting and enjoyable.
